Theken exhibiting at North American Spine Society's Spring Break 2007

Akron, OH – (March 15, 2007) Theken Spine, a leader in spinal fixation systems, announces they are exhibiting today in booth #102 at the North American Spine Society's (NASS) Spring Break Meeting, "Back to the Future - Straight Spines, Straight Talk." The meeting runs through Saturday March 17, 2007 at the Pointe Hilton Tapatio Cliffs Resort in Phoenix, AZ.

Theken will feature six new products planned for release within the next six months. Theken will also display their current product offerings, including spinal fixation systems and synthetic bone products. Theken Spine is one of the largest and fastest growing spinal fixation companies in the United States.

At the meeting, Theken hopes to recruit distributors and establish relationships with new surgeons and industry experts. "Everyone brings their new products to the meetings," said John Winge, Vice President of Sales for Theken, "Exhibiting at NASS Spring Break is a great opportunity to see the new innovations in spine care."

NASS offers members of their association continuing education credits required to continue to practice medicine in the spinal field throughout the year. They also offer surgeons and medical students a chance to meet with different medical product companies and experience the latest in spinal technology.
